OPERATIONS

PARA 3.

Upon the liquidation of the SSU on 20 October 1946, operations and functions now performed by SSU missions and stations will be assumed by External Survey Detachment and representatives of Special Operations, CIG. Any connection between the External Survey Detachment and CIG will be made known only in cases of the utmost necessity to high ranking officials without whose cooperation it is impossible to operate the detachment. It must be clearly understood that SSU has been liquidated and that the employment of all SSU personnel has been terminated. Subsequently certain selected individuals have secured a position with CIG and assigned to Office of Special Operations which will be represented in the field by either an External Survey Detachment or Station. All former SSU stations and personnel operating under complete or semi-cover shall continue to so operate as part of the Office of Special Operations, CIG. The geographic desks are exactly similiar to the former FSRO desks and there will be no change in the Direction and support of your activity and your method of reporting to Washington. A careful and detailed study of all operations presently being carried on by Missions and Stations is being made, and in those instances where a change or discontinuance of certain operations is desired, you will be notified by 1 November 1946. Until such time ~~time~~, present cover operations and projects are to be continued.

~~TOP SECRET~~

25. Insert at end of 1st sentence in Paragraph 25.

 In any discussions with outsiders, all CIG personnel shall emphasize that SSU has been liquidated, that their employment with (or assignment to) SSU has been terminated and that they have subsequently secured a position with (or been assigned to) the External Survey Detachment.

1. Authority. The War Department is responsible, in accordance with existing legal authority, for furnishing personnel, funds, and facilities to the Central Intelligence Group. This memorandum pertains only to the issue of supplies, equipment, and/or the furnishing of services to that organization.

2. Procurement. The Director of Central Intelligence may at his discretion or at the discretion of his authorized representative procure supplies, equipment or services for that organization within the limits of funds made available by the War Department for the purpose of supporting the activities of the Central Intelligence Group. The Director of Central Intelligence or his authorized representative may also procure supplies and equipment or services required by the Central Intelligence Group from the Army Air Forces or from the Technical Services of the War Department. The War Department or any of its activities will not request reimbursement for any supplies, equipment, or services furnished to the Central Intelligence Group within the zone of interior or any overseas theater.

3. Supply Procedures.

4. Within the Zone of Interior:

Issue of standard or non-standard items of equipment available from the Army Air Forces and the Technical Services will be effected by appropriate requisition in the manner prescribed by the War Department activity concerned. Programming of future requirements will not be required except in such instances where, by agreement between the Central Intelligence Group and a War Department activity, programming will be requested for certain classes of equipment.

b. Overseas:

(1) Commanding Generals of existing Theaters of Operation are authorized to issue or furnish all classes of supplies, equipment or services which are required by the Central Intelligence Group overseas missions or personnel within the boundaries of their commands upon proper requisition signed by an authorized representative of that agency.

(2) Supplies and equipment issued to a Central Intelligence Group Mission will be replenished upon proper requisition by the Theater Commander through existing channels when replenishment is necessary or desirable, in which case reference to the original procurement document submitted by the Central Intelligence Group overseas mission must be made.

4. Accountability. Supplies or equipment issued to the Central Intelligence Group by any activity of the War Department within the zone of interior or overseas shall be considered expended upon issue and obtaining proper receipt therefor. No further accountability or inspection of records as to reissue or use of such property shall be sought. It shall be the responsibility of the Director of Central Intelligence to issue and/or direct the use of such equipment or supplies in accordance with existing governmental regulations or policies.

5. Security. Commanding Generals shall maintain records of issues of supplies, equipment or services furnished to the Central Intelligence Group in an extremely secure manner in order to avoid the identity of its mission, personnel or objectives, which may be determined from such records. Commanding Generals are requested to make such arrangements with authorized representatives of the Central Intelligence Group as are appropriate and are mutually agreeable for the maintenance of adequate security.

6. In all instances of requisitioning by the Central Intelligence Group within the zone of interior or within a Theater of Operation, this letter will be considered as the basic authority for such issue and no other authority shall be requested or required.
